South Bay police say "no" to union - get pay raises

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

South Bay Police officers, who have been negotiating to unionize for almost a year, said no to the Police Benevolent Association.

City Commissioners learned Tuesday night that officers had sent letters to the union saying they did not wish to join the PBA.

The commission then voted to give officers a $500 annual raise, retroactive to October of 1992 when the city's new budget was approved. Mayor Clarence Anthony said the city was unable to give raises to the police department while they were negotiating with the union.

In other action, the commission re-appointed Police Chief Roy Humston, 59, as chief and as fire chief.

Chief Humston has been with the South Bay Police Department since 1982 when he joined the force as a police officer. In May of 1983 he was appointed interim police chief and later in the year made police chief.

Corporal Guillermo Flores was promoted to the position of sergeant with a pay adjustment of five percent. He has been on the force since July of 1989.

Mayor Anthony made several proposals to the commission concerning the police department, including lease/purchasing two additional police cars and lifting a freeze on training workshops for the officers.

He also suggested the city give officers a uniform allowance.

"We have high turn over in the police department," he said, "and it's not always about money. We've got to give them other benefits, provide support and offer some incentives."

Man charged with first degree murder

A South Bay man has been found guilty of first degree murder in the shooting death of a man at the Okeechobee Inn in South Bay in June of 1990.

Anthony Chastine, 22, of 23 Davis Drive, Belle Glade, was charged March 24 during a trial at the county courthouse in West Palm Beach.

Det. Sgt. John Russ with the Glades substation of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said Chastine was arrested shortly after the shooting, based upon evidence and statements from witnesses just after the crime.

The victim, Charles Haynes, of Pelham, Tennessee was a guest in the hotel. He was shot and robbed while getting ice from an ice machine on the hotel property.

Chastine was questioned at the time and confessed to murdering Haynes. At that time he was charged with first degree murder, conspiracy to commit armed robbery, attempted armed robbery and person engaged in a criminal act with a firearm.

Also arrested was Barnes Lampkin, a possible accomplice in the robbery.

There is a possibility Chastine could be sentenced to death for shooting Haynes, according to Det. Sgt. Russ. Sentencing is scheduled this month.

Growers do not want to see lake level reduced by two feet

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

Local growers are concerned over a possible plan by the U.S. Corp of Engineers to lower the level of Lake Okeechobee by almost two feet.

During a meeting April 1, sponsored by the Corps, environmentalists said the Corps had received recommendations to lower the lake level five years ago, but had not moved the lake to comply with the recommendation.

Maximum lake levels have been allowed to fluctuate between 15.5 and 17.25 over the past 15 years. Environmentalists say these levels have killed native wildlife and vegetation.

But growers in the Everglades Agricultural Area say lowering the lake level causes concerns about water supplies for the urban population, the environment and agriculture.

"We're concerned about it because they need to look at the entire ecosystem," said Barbara Miedema, Manager of Public Relations for Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative.

"Historically, the level of the lake has been at 21 feet," said Mrs. Miedema. "We believe the lake is the best place to store water because there is less evaporation than in the marshes."

Glades vegetable growers also want adequate levels to be maintained.

Ed Hamilton, General Manager for A Duda and Sons, said "If you lower the peak level of the lake, during the dry season, you might come up short. The consequences for us could be quite catastrophic."

Bubba Wade, vice president of Administrative Services for U.S. Sugar Corporation, attended the meeting with the Corp of Engineers and environmentalists.

"We understand that the health of the lake is very important," said Mr. Wade. "But we'd be concerned, as all residents of South Florida should be, about any plan that reduces the water supply to South Florida."

Mr. Wade said more workshops on the issue are being planned by the Corp. He has encouraged the Corp to hold the workshops in the Glades.

Autopsy report reveals Post reporter died of heart disease

The medical examiner's office said Monday, April 5 that Palm Beach Post reporter Dean Jones died of heart disease.

Mr. Jones, 54, was found dead March 22 in his home by Belle Glade Police after he failed to report to work that Monday morning.

A scholarship fund has been set up in memory of Mr. Jones at the Bank of Pahokee.

Friends can make contributions at the Pahokee, South Bay, or Clewiston City Halls, at the Belle Glade or Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, or at the Bank of Pahokee.

21 people graduate from Leadership Glades class

Participants in Leadership Glades attended a graduation reception April 1 at Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative.

Community leaders participated in this year's Leadership Glades, sponsored by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

Frances Dolly Hand was the mistress of ceremonies at the reception. Belle Glade's Mayor Bill Bailey gave the welcome address and the guest speaker was Bill J. Pfeiffer, vice-president of Leadership Palm Beach County, Inc.

George H. Wedgworth, president of Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida awarded the certificates to the class and Brent Woodham, president of the Belle Glade Chamber gave the closing remarks.

Participants in Leadership Glades attended six seminars to learn about critical issues in the Glades and develop leadership skills.

During the program, participants discussed their concerns with key decision makers in various fields and learned more about the area.

The first workshop was in October and covered Health and Human Services. The second seminar in November addressed the environment and water management and December's day-long session covered business and leisure in the Glades.

Agriculture and agribusiness were learned about in January and in February participants studied the education system in the Glades and went to various schools, including Palm Beach Community College, Glades campus. County and local government and the criminal justice system was the topic of the final session in March.

Chamber Executive Director Iris Tanner said they are looking for interested community members for the next Leadership Glades class, which will begin in October.

Also called sick headaches, a typical migraine attack begins with a dull throbbing ache in one area of the head and progresses to a piercing pain. These torturous attacks may be preceded by a change in the field of vision - a flickering before the eyes, flashes of light or a partial blocking of the vision. They are sometimes accompanied by nausea or vomiting. They are seldom relieved by aspirin. Their duration is from 2 to 48 hours.

Glades Day School's faculty and students will get a much needed vacation with the coming of Spring Break April 9-16. Everyone should return to school on April 19, relaxed and ready to tackle the last six weeks of school!

GDS congratulates Mrs. Cathy Lee and the Class of '93 for their great performances in the Senior Class Play "Junior Prom" last Friday and Saturday. The dinner was delicious and the acting superb. It was great entertainment!

Visitors of the elementary library this past week found themselves swamped in history as they viewed the sixth graders' social studies projects on display.

The students did an excellent job in recreating places and events such as the Great Wall, Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Nazi concentration camps, Great Pyramids of Egypt and the Roman Coliseum, among others.

Spring seems like a time for traveling and the elementary students are taking advantage of field trips to the South Florida Science Museum and the Dolly Hand Center.

Grades 3-4 viewed the stars and the moon at the Museum's observatory and also learned about their five senses in hands-on displays.

Students in K4 through third attended a presentation of "The Velveteen Rabbit" at the Dolly Hand Center on March 31.

Congratulations are in order to Tom Carter, who won a $500 scholarship from the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame in recognition of his academic achievement, leadership and football prowess.

Tom, who was recently accepted at Vanderbilt, is president of his class and in line for valedictorian honors.

A big congratulations goes to the varsity softball team for winning the Ft. Myers Evangelical Invitation Tournament last weekend. The Lady Glades trounced Ft. Myers Canterbury 21-4, Jupiter Christian 20-4, Evangelical 14-3 and Sheridan Hills 19-8 to win the championship. Way to go, girls!

Volleyball Enthusiasts, Take Note: Glades Day is sponsoring an invitation co-ed volleyball tournament this Saturday, April 10 at the school.

Co-ed rules are in effect, with two females on the court at all times. It's not too late to enter.

Anyone interested may contact Mike Schlechter at Everglades Farm Equipment (996-6531). The entry fee is $75.

Upcoming events

Career Day will be April 22 for students interested in learning information on careers. It will hopefully give students ideas as to what job they might like to pursue. The GTAT (Grade Ten Assessment Test), will be given the week students return from spring break.

Report Cards

Today, students should be home hearing either the good or bad news. Students have more than nine weeks to go. Hopefully they won't catch "Spring Fever" or senioritis.

Spring vacation began Tuesday and ends on the 11th.

Department of Social Work students honored March 12

On March 12, Mr. Ramon Palomo from Latinos en Accion, through the Palm Beach Community Foundation presented a check in the amount of $1,500 to a group of dedicated students from the Department of Social Work at Florida Atlantic University. The students have created "The Belle Glade Farmworkers Map" under the guidance of Dr. Cecilia Campoverde. The map will help farmworkers to access and locate various agencies and identify their services in the Belle Glade area. It will unfold opportunity and a sense of dignity and worth for the farmworkers. What is unique about the map project is that the listings of agencies are translated into Spanish and Creole. In addition, until this time, available directories have not been produced in a portable form.

The students who spearheaded the project spent four months and over 600 man hours researching, compiling information, interviewing, traveling and organizing this project.

This enormous undertaking on the part of Milagros Borrero, Aurora Francisco, Kimberly La Forge Osborn, Jack Lewis, Minerva Rodriguez and Teresa Tisdale has been a learning experience.

What's it like in the Glades?

California 5th grader would like to know

The reason I am writing to your local paper is to ask if you could publish my letter in your paper.

I am hoping some of your readers in your community would write to me and tell me about their experiences, traditions and some history about their life in Florida.

I live in Southern California, but I was born in Florida. I only lived there five years, so I don't know too much about Florida. Also, if any of the citizens find time to reply, it would be great if they would enclose a copy of my 'published' letter.

My parents don't know about your state.

Thank you so much for taking the time for my request and any information would be appreciated.

Letters to the Editor

Call you congressman

Dear Editor:

The election of President Clinton has brought both promise and challenge for people who want to see expanded public, mass and rail transit and increased rail passenger service. This promise and challenge can best be illustrated in the just released economic plan of the President's.

One the one hand, he has increased the monies going for mass transit, high-speed rail and Amtrak; on the other hand, he increases by almost five times more ($8.5 billion) the monies going for highway construction alone. When the proposed stimulus package is localized to Florida, the imbalance grows (295.9 million for highways and airports; only 6 million for public transit and rail). Now we favor public, mass and rail transit and rail passenger service for economic, environmental and energy reasons, but we also favor them for a reason dear to the President's heart: they create more jobs than spending on highways and airports.

For example, the President has estimated that $5.6 billion spent on highway construction will create 150,000 jobs, yet only $1.2 billion spent on mass transit will create 83,000 jobs. If the President's entire $8.5 billion highway increase were shifted to the aforementioned transportation alternatives, by the President's own figures he would create approximately 363,000 jobs than if he left the spending in the highway category!

It is important, therefore, that you contact the President, Senators Graham and Mack and your local congressman and urge them at a minimum to equalize the overall spending between public, mass and rail transit and highways and airports. You also need to let your elected representatives know that you want to see expanded rail passenger service from Florida to other parts of the country. They in turn need not only to come up with the monies for equipment and operating purposes but also must push Amtrak to get going.

Sincerely,
John Hedrick, President,
People's Transit Organization
Monticello, Florida

Reservists are eligible for certain burial benefits

The Department of Veterans Affairs has announced that recent legislation now extends eligibility for government headstones, markers, and burial flags to certain military reservists.

In general, veterans discharged from active duty under conditions other than dishonorable are eligible for a government-provided headstone or marker and burial flag.

Many reservists already meet this eligibility requirement because of active duty during periods such as the Persian Gulf War.

Before enactment of the new law, reservists who had served on active duty only for training were not eligible for these benefits. The law now makes eligible all who have completed at least 20 years of qualifying reserve duty.

In fiscal year 1992, VA provided 302,975 headstones and markers for veterans -- a 9.3 percent increase over the yearly average of 277,150 in the previous five fiscal years.

VA's National Cemetery System served more veterans and their next of kin in fiscal year 1992 than in any other year since the establishment of the program in 1862.

VA headstones and markers are available in both the traditional upright, marble headstone, and the modern, bronze, marble, or granite flat marker types. Bronze niche markers are also available.

Headstones and markers are provided automatically to mark the graves of veterans in national cemeteries and state veterans cemeteries. Upon application, they are also provided to mark graves of veterans in other cemeteries, including private cemeteries.

VA always provides for the cost of transporting the headstone or marker. If interment occurs in a private cemetery, however, VA does not pay for the cost of placing the gravemarker.

For more information on VA's headstone and marker program, including application information, contact the nearest VA Regional Office, or write to Director, Office of Memorial Programs (403), National Cemetery System, Department of Veterans Affairs, Washington, DC, 20420.

Many boating accidents attributed to drinking

The deadly combination of booze and boating accounts for at least 50 percent of all boating accidents, according to L. Paul Oullette of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC).

Florida has led the nation in boating fatalities for three of the last four years. In 1991, the state's death toll reached 103 -- the highest in the nation. The death toll since January 1, 1992, totals 69.

Lt. Oullette points out that many people who would never dream of operating a car while under the influence of alcohol will operate a boat while in that condition. Alcohol impairs judgment, slows reflexes, and affects the individual's ability to make fast decisions.

Officer Oullette says there just isn't room for drunken boaters in Florida. He noted that there are approximately 720,000 boats registered in the state. About 70 percent of them operate in the state's fresh water areas.

Selecting a designated operator when you're out boating makes good sense, according to Lt. Oullette. Boats don't have brakes, and it takes a long time for a boat to lose its forward momentum. That means thinking clearly, and thinking ahead.

There are many myths about alcohol which explain in part why so many people overindulge when they're afloat. One can of beer contains as much alcohol as a shot of whiskey.

Another myth is that you can sober up with a walk in the fresh air, or with a cup of black coffee. The fact is that only time will sober up a drunk. A person whose blood alcohol level exceeds the legal limit will take seven hours to sober up. A lot of people assume it will be easy to tell when the boat operator has had too much to drink. The fact is many experienced drinkers learn to hide the outward signs of inebriation.

Alcohol is a powerful drug that can have a devastating effect. Boaters should keep in mind that too much alcohol will impair judgement, coordination, and vision.

People who operate a vessel while under the influence of alcohol or drugs face stiff penalties, according to Lt. Oullette. He said guilty parties face fines up to $2,500; imprisonment up to one year; non-paid public service work; and mandatory substance abuse counseling.

The GFC offers free classes in boating safety. For details contact Lt. Paul Oullette at the Everglades Regional Office, (407)-640-6100. Classes deal with navigation, accident prevention, boating basics, legal requirements, and related subjects.

April 7 was World Health Day

April 7 marked the annual observance of World Health Day, which was celebrated in 182 countries across the globe.

The American Association for World Health (AAWH), in cooperation with the World Health Organization (WHO) and its regional affiliate, the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services coordinated activities in the United States for World Health Day.

Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima, Director-General of the World

Health Organization, announced that the theme for this year's World Health Day was "Injury and Violence Prevention."

In his announcement, Dr. Nakajima stressed the importance of communicating a message of prevention. He explained that injuries and violence take the lives of at least 3.5 million people every year. Further, he emphasized that half of the deaths of young adults are due to injuries.

With improvements in public health and technology, life expectancy at birth is increasing worldwide. It seems unfair that any individual should meet a premature death or become physically handicapped as the result of a preventable injury.

"It is time to show that in contemporary society, safety is a matter of individual and collective responsibility."

Far from being a marginal concern, it should form an integral part of health promotion...the safety of each is the responsibility of all," said Dr. Nakajima.

Local kids enjoy fishing trip on Lucky Day Charter Boat

On March 11, the second Fishin Kids Stay Clean Program, took their Glades deep sea fishing trip. The program is designed to give school students an opportunity to learn and participate in deep sea fishing and improve the quality of life. The students are selected by earning the opportunity, which is based on acceptable conduct and grades.

The group, which included 22 students, four school counselors and three law enforcement chaperons, departed from the Palm Beach Yacht Club aboard the "Lucky Day Charter Boat" and went out the Boynton inlet. There were numerous strikes of yellow tail and a red snapper, as well as a few mackerel. A good time was had by all. This program was brought to the Glades by Mr. Simunek, a professional angler who saw a need to bring this type of program to the Glades area.

It should be noted through his hard work and vision, this program has been welcomed in the community schools and law enforcement areas. This trip targeted Lake Shore Middle School. Mr. Richard Ramsey and his staff worked hard to coordinate this trip. This trip was a success thanks to the help of Mr. King, Mr. Ramsey, Mr. Murvin, Mr. Lampi and Mr. Harrington.

Mr. King even caught several fish for Mr. Darville, who could not make it. Also on this trip, there were several females and thanks to Ms. Bell for watching the ones who got seasick.

Soft drinks were provided by Horta and Sons Distributors of Pahokee. Lunch was provided by Burger King, compliments of Mr. Larry Royal.

Lake Okeechobee is highly eutrophic

A study of Lake Okeechobee's aquatic invertebrate populations by the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reveals that the state's largest lake is highly eutrophic (nutrient enriched).

The agency launched the study in 1987 to assess the overall health of Lake Okeechobee's ecosystem and to determine availability of food resources for fish.

The study reveals an undesirable shift in the relative abundance of different kinds of bottom-dwelling species over the past 20 years in the 450,000-acre Lake Okeechobee.

Furthermore, bottom sediments in a substantial area of the lake now are dominated by an extremely-pollution-tolerant group of worms, insects and crustaceans. Biologist believe the rise of these organisms indicated eutrophication is threatening the well-being of Lake Okeechobee.

Gary Warren, a Commission fisheries biologist in Okeechobee, said a segmented worm, Limnodrilus hoffmeisteri, known for its pollution tolerance and ability to withstand long periods without oxygen was found to be the most abundant of all invertebrates collected.

"We detected an average of 5,000 segmented worms per square yard over a large area of the lake," said Warren. "This indicated the majority of the lake's bottom sediments are an extremely-nutrient-rich ooze and the lake's bottom sediments are an extremely-nutrient-rich ooze and the lake is highly eutrophic."

Biologists examined invertebrates because these minute animals reflect the condition of an aquatic ecosystem. Invertebrates convert algae and other plant materials into protein for use throughout the food chain. In addition, they make up a large part of the diet of juvenile freshwater game fish such as largemouth bass, black crappie and redear sunfish.

"Preserving water quality and habitat favorable for reproduction of aquatic invertebrates is critical to the survival of species at the top of the aquatic food chain," Warren said.

The study also uncovered, high numbers of a few tolerant sediment-dwelling species in bottom sediments that are important to maintaining Lake Okeechobee as a world class fishery. A large immature midge or wild mosquito, Chironomus crassicaudatus, a species which serves as a primary food source for immature black crappie, was found in the northern part of the lake.

"Bottom sediments of the southern quarter of the lake supported the most healthy and diverse group of invertebrate," Warren said.

The data also indicates that the northwestern and western areas of the lake, which are heavily used by anglers, support a healthy invertebrate community which reflects the presence of ample oxygen and high nutrient conditions, Warren said.

A study conducted in 1969-70 by the Department of Environmental Regulation revealed the same types of invertebrate were found there. However, more of the pollution-tolerant worm species was found during the recent study.

"The population of pollution-tolerant worm species has doubled during the past 20 years," Warren said. "At the same time there has been a 50 percent decline in the more-pollution-sensitive species."

"A similar pattern occurred in the western basin of Lake Erie, in the 1930's and 1960's, prior to an ecologically undesired shift from a thriving perch fishery to a gizzard shad-dominated fishery," said Warren.

Comparisons with invertebrate data from other Florida lakes rank Lake Okeechobee among lakes considered highly eutrophic to hyper-eutrophic (extremely nutrient enriched). In Lake Thonotosassa in Hillsborough County, the most trophically advanced of all lakes examined, segmented worms made up 43 percent of the total organisms. In comparison, the bottom fauna of East Lake Tohopekaliga in Osceola County, a mesotrophic moderately eutrophic lake, is only 12 percent segmented worms.

"If Lake Okeechobee's problems are not adequately confronted today, the degradation of the lake will continue to favor less desirable plant and animal life which thrives in heavily degraded ecosystems," said Warren.

"This trend has started in the lake and the Commission will continue to work with the other agencies to correct the problems and monitor results."

The commission investigation of Lake Okeechobee examines effects of eutrophication upon life forms of the lake's ecosystem. The project is partially funded by the Federal Aid in Sport Fish Restoration Programs.
